

A MAN FROM BAIKAL.

RUSSIAN STUPIDITY SENDS GOOD CITIZENS HERE.

Refugees in Palestine, England, and the Argentine Republic--A Fifth Avenue Idyl.

Correspondence of the Richmond Dispatch, New York, June 13.--Years ago, when a man from New Jersey was in the city, I went to one of the receiving saloons maintained by wealthy Hebrews in a country for the succor of their race. I made a study of the types I found, and such a scene of wretchedness I did not expect to see again, or to bear again.

These refugees in England and the world over at starving wages for labor.

I happened into the office of Mrs. Cohen had just seen the title of a recent refugee from the British district of Russia. This broad, sturdy man of intelligence and medium height, with 300 in his pocket--decidedly a gentleman for any country, one would see the man from the Trans-Balkan nation of coming to America, his little home near a station of which he had built up, and on which he had a house.
